Flawless Facetted Door Handles

The design team at Turnstyle Designs constantly look to Interior Design trends to be inspired, the new Facetted Door levers in both a chunky barrel and a slimmer elegant version pull all the elements of the Modern Industrial trend and New York Loft Apartment which expertly combines rustic materials with classic luxury fittings.

The decagon design is a modern take on a classical design (think Roman Columns) in Turnstyles trademarked resin material “Amalfine™” makes these levers very tactile, combined with Turnstyles Industrial chic metal finishes the handle translates from contemporary to vintage seamlessly.
The Facetted Barrel is for the larger door and the Facetted Tube gives the elegant and luxury feel to a more refined interior.

About Amalfine

Amalfine™ was first developed by Turnstyle Designs in 1992, we have been improving the process and formulas ever since. The colour runs throughout the product and are not just a surface finish but a material in itself. Tactile, warm to the touch, highly durable with the ability to produce the finest detail.

About Turnstyle Designs

Turnstyle celebrates its 25th anniversary this year and recently revamped its website to provide clients with an online configurator that can visualise all the possible combinations on a tablet or smartphone. Amazingly, with around 2,000 individual components in stock, it has worked out that its standard range of products provides up to 20,000 different combinations of styles, materials and finishes.

Turnstyle Designs was established by Steve Roberts in 1992, out of a small shed in the back garden of a cottage in Bideford, Devon, UK and now employs over 40 staff worldwide, has a showroom in The Design Centre, Chelsea Harbour, London and exports 70% of its products to be included in High-end Residential, Marine and Commercial projects around the world.
