SONAR
EDGE PULL

SONAR

Christina created a statement lip edge pull, by increasing the size for both practical and visual purposes. The shape and edge were paramount in the design and took many attempts to perfect. Her aim was to ensure the handle could be used throughout projects, but especially in a busy working kitchen, where grip for movement is particularly important.

The pull is designed to sit flush within a door or drawer edge, creating a surface for our finishes to radiate across. With nine different solid living and plated metal finishes, the pull can fit perfectly within most interior projects. Due to their asymmetrical form, they would also look particularly good when used in pairs on double doors, side by side.

The solid brass is impressively heavy weighted, which furthermore adds to the quality. Our living finishes are designed to change and develop over time and with use. This aging process can transform the finish and intensify the look. Brass components are polished and then treated using several different techniques to change the surface, either by accelerated aging, as with Vintage and Burnished finishes, or brushing as with our Satin Brass.

Supplied with slotted screws in matching finishes, add an industrial feature to finish off the look. We offer five standard sizes, 50mm, 100mm, 150mm, 200mm, 250mm and 300mm. However, to allow further customisation we are now offering a 'made to measure' service up to 1 metre.
